

YOUR RIGHTS

Under the GDPR, you have the right to get information about the personal data that Newsec has about you. If some information is wrong, you have the right to have it corrected. Under certain circumstances, you have the right to have personal data deleted, to object to a processing, to get the access restricted and to move information to another owner. Please contact gdpr-support@newsec.se to get help with this. If you want information about what data we have registered about you, you can send a letter to this address (please mark the letter GDPR):

Newsec
Box 5365

Sweden

Further down in this document you will find the rights of the registered.

Rights of the Registered

When we process personal data about the data subject, either on our own or for others, the data subjects have a number of rights under the GDPR. Therefore, we have adopted this policy that tells you about your rights if we process personal data about you.

You can request to exercise your rights by sending a signed letter to:

Newsec
Box 5365
102 49 Stockholm
Sweden

When submitting a request, please state your full name, your personal number and the company name where you want to exercise your rights. This is necessary because we need to verify that the right person exercise the rights and also to guarantee that we send the information securely to the right person.

Once we have received your request, we will investigate whether we can identify you and whether the eligibility conditions are met. If so, we or the data controller, if we are not data controller, will ensure that the right is met.

As a starting point, you can freely and for free exercise your rights. However, if you request additional copies of information, we may charge a reasonable fee. For requests that are obviously unfounded or excessive, we may either charge a fee to provide information or take the desired action or refuse to comply with the request. The exercise of your rights must also not violate the rights and freedoms of others, and we may therefore refuse to fully or partially fulfill your rights if this will be the case.

Right to withdraw consent

You are entitled to withdraw your consent if our processing of your personal data is based on your consent. In this case, we will delete your personal data if there is no other legal basis for the treatment, see also the Right to erasure. Withdrawal of consent will not, however, affect the legality of the treatment we have already made on the basis of the consent.

Right to information and access to personal data

You have the right to know what personal data we are processing about you, the purpose of the treatment, the recipients or categories of recipients to whom the personal data have been or will be disclosed, the period the personal data will be stored or, if this is not possible, the criteria used to determine this period, from where we collected the personal data, if not collected from you, information about automatic decisions, if we use such, and information about transfer for processing outside the EU or EEA and the necessary guarantees in connection with such a transfer.

Right to rectification

You have the right to have incorrect personal data corrected or supplemented. If so, please contact us and indicate what the inaccuracies are and how to correct them.

Right to erasure (right to be forgotten)

You have the right to require your personal data to be deleted from us if your personal data is no longer required to fulfill the purpose for which they were collected, if our processing of your personal data is based on your consent and you withdraw your consent, and there is no other legal basis for the treatment, if you raise a legitimate objection to treatment in the interests of society or others, if treatment is for direct marketing, in the case of an illegal treatment or if deletion follows from local law. However, you do not have the right to require personal data deleted from us if processing of personal data is required to fulfill a contract for which you are a party, to exercise the rights of freedom of expression and information, in order to comply with a legal obligation subject to local law, or for legal claims to be established, exercised or defended.

Right to restriction of processing

You have the right to restrict our processing of your personal data if you contest the accuracy of your personal data until we have determined whether the personal data is correct, if the processing is illegal, but you wish to restrict the processing instead of erasure of the personal data, if we no longer need the personal data for processing, but the personal data is necessary for a legal claim to be established, exercised or defended, or if you have objected to treatment in the interests of society or others until it is determined that the interests in question adhere with your interests. In connection with a limitation of processing of personal data, we may treat your personal data only, except for storage, with your consent or for the purpose of establishing, exercising or defending a legal claim, or for protecting another natural or legal person or to consider important social interests.

Right of notification

You are entitled to be informed of all recipients that we have disclosed or shared your personal data with, and that the recipients concerned are notified of a correction, deletion or restriction of your personal data unless this is impossible or disproportionate.

Right to data portability

You are entitled to receive in a structured, commonly used and machine-readable format, the personal data about you that you have given us, and you are entitled to transmit this information to another data controller when the processing is based on a consent or on a contract and the processing is done automatically. If technically possible, you also have the right to require us to transmit your personal data directly to the other data controller.

Right to object

You have the right to object to processing your personal data in the interests of society or others, and the personal data may no longer be processed unless we can demonstrate the important legitimate reason for the treatment that precedes your interests, rights and freedoms, or the processing is necessary for a legal claim to be established, exercised or defended. You also have the right to object to the processing of your personal data for direct marketing at any time and the personal data may no longer be processed for this purpose.

Right not to be subject to automatic processing

You are entitled to not be subject to a decision based solely on automatic processing, including profiling, which has legal effects or similarly significantly affects you. However, this does not apply if the decision is necessary for the conclusion or performance of a contract to which you are a party, if the decision is based on your consent or if the decision is given in local law.

Right to notification at security breaches

You have the right to be notified if we have a breach of our personal data security which will pose a high risk to your rights and freedoms. However, this right does not apply if we have applied appropriate technical and organizational safeguards to the personal data affected by the violation, such as actions that make your personal data incomprehensible to anyone who has no authorized access, if we have implemented subsequent actions, ensuring that the high risk of your rights and freedoms is likely to no longer be real, or if direct notification to you will require disproportionate action. In the latter case, however, instead, we must make a public notice or equivalent measure by which you are informed in a similarly effective manner.

Right to complain about processing your personal data

You have the right to appeal to the Supervisory Authority in your local country or in Sweden if you believe that our processing of your personal data exceeds the local interpretation of GDPR.

We will appreciate receiving a copy of the complaint in connection with the transmission to the Supervisory Authority, so that we can act on the complaint.
